over the past forty years state provincial and local governments in the united states and canada have provided foreign automakers with approximately 4 80 billion in incentives in order to lure light vehicles assembly plants to their areas this has included tax abatements infrastructure construction land giveaways job training programs and other subsidies as of early 2015 ten foreign vehicle makers operated 20 light vehicles in developed north america despite the fact that all ten of these automakers have pursued a similar pattern first exporting vehicles into the united states and canada before launching vehicle plants in developed north america each has followed its own specific historical development path and has created its own unique growth trajectory this book provides a unique historical and qualitative review of these ten vehicle makers from their early beginnings to their export entry into the united states and or canada through early 2015 in addition it chronicles the histories of more than a dozen former automakers and potential future foreign light motor vehicle assembly plants in the united states and canada this includes the first foreign automaker to build its cars in the united states de dion bouton of france in july 1900 the early 20th century endeavors of fiat mercedes and rolls royce and the present day hopes of chinese and indian automakers in the process the text also provides an assessment of the top competing states and sites for any future plants the possible incentives packages governments may offer to attract such facilities and an estimated incentive value for each automaker overall the goal of this book is to expand the knowledge of policymakers at all tiers of government in the united states and canada and to help them take a more holistic look at the pros and cons of attracting automobile manufacturing fdi it is hoped that this will enable them to make more informed decisions when pursuing a new foreign motor vehicle assembly plant its findings should also prove informative to urban and regional planning political science sociology economics labor and international development scholars and students in north america and worldwide from katherine newman award winning author of no shame in my game and sociologist hella winston a sharp and irrefutable call to reenergize this nation s long neglected system of vocational training after decades of off shoring and downsizing that have left blue collar workers obsolete and stranded the united states is now on the verge of an industrial renaissance companies like apple bmw bosch and volkswagen are all opening plants and committing millions of dollars to build products right here on american soil the only problem we don t have a skilled enough labor pool to fill these positions which are in many cases technically demanding and require specialized skills a decades long series of idealistic educational policies with the expressed goal of getting every student to go to college has left a generation of potential workers out of the system touted as a progressive egalitarian institution providing opportunity even to those with the greatest need the american secondary school system has in fact deepened existing inequalities leaving behind millions of youth especially those who live in the de industrialized northeast and midwest without much of a future at all we can do better argue acclaimed sociologists katherine newman and hella winston taking a page from the successful experience of countries like germany and austria where youth unemployment is a mere 7 they call for a radical reevaluation of the idea of vocational training long discredited as an instrument of tracking the united states can prepare a new high performance labor force if we revamp our school system to value industry apprenticeship and rigorous technical education by doing so we will not only be able to meet the growing demand for skilled employees in dozens of sectors where employers decry the absence of well trained workers we will make the american dream accessible to all
